

To Whom it May Concern,

I am writing to support the increased acceptance and availability of low power FM stations for communities nationwide. These stations offer unique opportunities to share information and art that is by and for community members. It is of the utmost importance to democracy and civic development that we be able to communicate with each other what is important to us and offer our creative and musical gifts to our fellows. Please do not succumb to pressure from corporations whose only allegiance is to their stockholders, but whose influence is over us all. A monopoly on media is a nail in the coffin of our democracy.

Sincerely,

Jason Danielson
